NSF and Your Career: Insights from an Insider

ABSTRACT:

Submitting a research proposal to NSF is not like submitting a paper for publication. There is a very different audience with different expectations. And how exactly does NSF work or more importantly, who works there? And, why are some engineering colleges 5 times more successful than others? Should you actually travel to Washington and visit NSF and meet with the operatives?

These and other questions will be addressed and some further insights provided.

Refreshments will be served.