Welcome to the inaugural newsletter for second year students in the College of Engineering! We hope you find this bi-weekly newsletter resourceful. Best of luck this semester from COE Undergraduate Student Services!

Congratulations!
You are about to finish your second year at Northeastern! Whether you participated in co-op or have been studying for your classes, you should be proud of your accomplishments!

What advice would you give a student to help them succeed during their second year? Your advice can be about academics, getting involved on campus, co-op, or anything that you think would be helpful! Please email your advice to e.schnepp@neu.edu. Your thoughts will be added to the COE Second Year Student Support website and featured in a Year Two @ NEU newsletter.

Sophomore Study Strategies: How to Prepare for Finals

1. Understand how you will be tested: What is the question format of the exam? How long is the exam and where is it located? What information are you responsible for?
2. Manage your priorities: Schedule study time for each exam. Find a study environment that works best for your learning style. Ask questions to your professor, TA and fellow classmates to clarify the material.
3. Gather and organize information: Create a study guide! Use tips from the previous newsletter.
4. Practice: Use flashcards to quiz yourself, study with fellow classmates, re-write your notes, complete practice problems and practice exams.

Resource Reminder!
All departments within the College of Engineering hire upperclass students as tutors each semester. These tutors have succeeded in each course and can give specific pointers to help you! If you are experiencing a challenging course or are looking for additional assistance at the end of the semester, review the COE Tutoring options located on the Second Year Student Support website:
